

Innovate Your Learning

eLearning Solutions

A Key Element of Your Learning Strategy

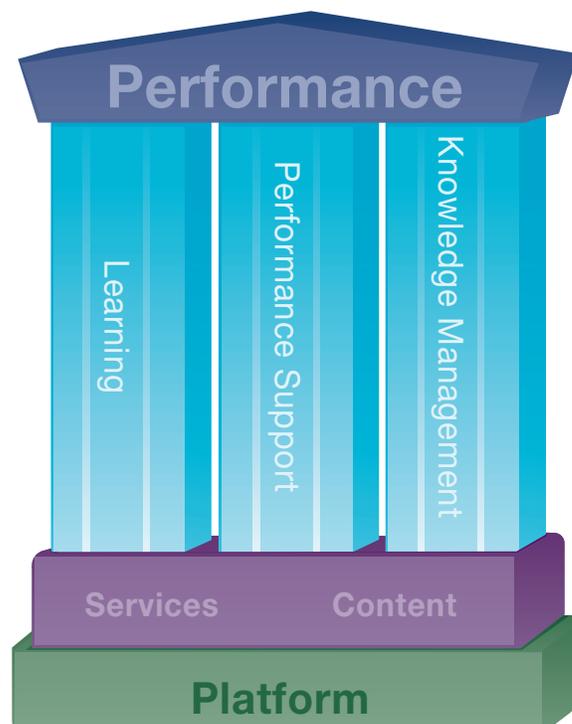

eLearning is a critical component of any learning strategy and should be integrated into your training initiatives, ongoing education plans and continuous support programs. RWD Technologies can help you utilize eLearning to propel your organization toward positive business results.

Figuring out What's Right for Your Organization

RWD can put all your eLearning concerns and questions into perspective and help you decide which training delivery method or combination of methods will ultimately help you achieve your goals. RWD's blended approach to learning applies the right combination of delivery techniques to deliver the most effective solution. When properly applied, eLearning is an integral part of a blended solution that will get your organization ready, trained, and supported to realize the value of a new application faster. We know how to blend synchronous online classrooms and asynchronous web-based training with traditional instructor led training and performance support tools to dramatically reduce end user time to competency and overall training costs.

RWD eLearning Services Include:

- Blended Solution Design
- Hosted Learning Infrastructure
- Learning / eLearning Strategy
- Learning Systems Integration
- Traditional Classroom Training to WBT Conversion/ Repurposing
- Web-based Courseware Development

Key Components of a Blended Human Performance Solution

Developing Training Specific to Your Users and Their Jobs

In some instances, off-the-shelf and generic courseware is beneficial but in most cases — you will need custom job-specific courseware that is directly related to your end users' roles and business objectives. RWD can build the content that will make eLearning exciting and interactive and provide an efficient and engaging experience that focuses on what people need to know to do their jobs better.

RWD specializes in creating and delivering customized eLearning solutions that improve human performance and allow your organization to achieve measurable business results. With nearly 20 years of practical, in-depth experience in human performance improvement, we have the knowledge and expertise to help you identify the best approach to training your users. Our experienced staff creates engaging, interactive, and effective eLearning solutions tailored to your company's needs.
